

Senate Expects Long Court Debate, Despite Possible Filibuster

Senator Clark Says He'll Talk Till He Drops To Prevent Senate From Voting Until Nation Understands.

NATION AGAINST

Administration Could Have Passed Measure Five Months Ago, But Not Now.

Washington, July 8 (AP)—Foes of the administration court bill predicted today that a filibuster would be the result of the Senate's action on the measure. The opposition leaders said the measure would be a legitimate attempt to block a vote. Senator Clark (D., Mo.), one of the group, commented: "I will not talk until I am ready to stop. I will prevent the Senate from voting until the country understands the measure. But I will not let the Senate decide the issue until the nation is ready to pass the bill."

Clark said that five months ago the administration probably had passed the bill. He said the long discussion before the committee and the delay in passing the measure had done the nation a disservice.

He predicted the same thing would happen to the compromise bill which administration forces had substituted for the President's original proposal.

Logan Has Floor.

On the third successive day, administration speakers carried the burden of the Senate debate. Senator Logan (D., Ky.), who helped bring the compromise bill, held the floor to resume at noon the speech which he began yesterday.

The greatest flare-up yesterday after Logan contended that the bill was trying to "destroy" the President. He said that some Democrats who had been elected to the chief executive were playing "the in-

Town Is Tense
Alcoa, Tenn., July 8 (AP)—Alcoa—owned by and named for the Aluminum Company of America—was tense but quiet today under the guns of 300 soldiers called in after two men were killed and 28 hurt in a pitched battle between strikers and company guards.

Henson Killeck, 30-year-old striker, died of bullet wounds shortly after yesterday's fight. A few hours later, W. M. Hunt, 42, a special officer, died of similar injuries.

Hope for an early settlement of differences between the company and strikers was expressed by Fred Westmore, president of the local aluminum workers union, who said he would appeal to Governor Gordon Brown today to name an arbitration board to "try to settle this thing."

A. D. Huddleston, regional manager of the company, said: (Continued on Page 15)

17 Dead in Heat Wave Sweeping Mid-West

Chicago, July 8 (AP)—Rising temperatures today wiped out hopes for immediate relief from the heat wave which blanketed the middle-west and North Atlantic States, causing at least 17 deaths.

The mercury, after a normal drop during the night, pushed into the nineties again under the impetus of a broiling sun and hot winds from the western plains.

The Weather Bureau at Washington predicted the wilting weather would continue through Friday. Some sections were favored by forecasts of local thundershowers.

Phillipsburg, Kas., recording 106 degrees, was the nation's hottest on the official weather map yesterday.

Four deaths were attributed to the heat in New England. Michigan reported eight heat fatalities, Minnesota and Nebraska two each, and Ohio one. Indiana reported numerous prostrations, one of which contributed to one fatality.

Thousands sought succor from the heat at beaches in New York and Chicago. New York's 92 degrees yesterday was its hottest weather this year.

China's Dragon Capital Scene of Clash with Japs

(By The Associated Press)

Peiping, China, July 8 (AP)—Fighting raged in the western suburbs of this ancient dragon capital of China between Japanese forces and Chinese General Sun's Chieh-yuan's 29th army today after a midnight clash between troops conducting secret night maneuvers.

Japanese soldiers seized a portion of the railroad from Peiping southward to Hankow and repeatedly attacked the city of Wanping. There was heavy fighting in the vicinity of the marble bridge of Marco Polo, 10 miles west of Peiping.

The Chinese were reported to have established their main positions within Wanpinghshien in the face of a reported ultimatum from Japanese troops demanding their immediate surrender.

Soldiers of the Chinese army said the fighting broke out at midnight when night-manoeuvring Japanese troops attempted to capture the marble bridge across the Yingting river. After a brief skirmish there, the Chinese withdrew into Wanpinghshien, which the Japanese brought under artillery fire at dawn.

Japs Accuse Chinese
Japanese sources denied Wanpinghshien had been bombarded and accused the Chinese of starting the trouble. Japan maintains a garrison of some 7,000 troops in the Peiping-Tientsin area under its interpretation of the Boxer protocol of 1901, under which the Chinese empire gave the principal foreign powers the right to use troops to keep the route open between Peiping and the sea.

Major Takeo Imai, assistant Japanese attaché, said Chinese troops had fired on maneuvering Japanese troops at 11 p. m. Wednesday. He added the Japanese halted their maneuvers and concentrated to await developments at midnight.

At 3 a. m. he continued, the Chinese main opened fire and the Japanese were forced to take self-defense measures.

Scores of Chinese soldiers and a Japanese officer were reported killed and several non-commissioned Japanese officers and soldiers were wounded.

The outbreak of hostilities, signaling a new and grave rupture in Sino-Japanese relations, was rapidly isolating both Peiping and Tientsin, headquarters of the Japanese military command in north China, 99 miles to the southeast.

Gates of Peiping were closed and martial law was reported ordered. Heavy details of soldiers and police patrolled the streets.

Beaten To Death
Buffalo, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—Raymond Parsons, 47, a rooming house proprietor, was found dead at home today, victim of what a medical examiner called a "very brutal murder." His head had been beaten in. Assistant Chief of Detectives William J. Madigan said a hammer was found on the pillow of a day bed on which Parsons apparently had been lying.

Earhart, Noonan Could Live Month on Isle, Is Report as Navy Launches Scout Planes

To Some He Is "God" Taking Them To Celestial "Olympics"—But to Courts of Law He Is Just a Human

"A Person No Different From Any Other Earthly Being—"

Father Divine is just another person to Justice Philip J. McCook, who, sitting in a special term, Part I, Supreme Court of New York county, has handed down an opinion in the matter of Verinda Brown, etc., plaintiff, against Father Divine, et al.

Plaintiff in action sought recovery of money and property which she says she gave to Father Divine and computed at $4,476.

Justice McCook offered three alternatives directing the defendants to settle. Interference by the appointment of a receiver, is given as the last, since, he said, "the court is reluctant" to disturb a religious group.

"No doubt remains in the mind of the court that the plaintiff gave, donated or presented to Father Divine, or that he accepted the property which she specifies. Nowhere in his long affidavit is found a flat denial of this fact. Stripped of verbiage, it amounted to a denial by him 'as a person' of the receipt of anything from anybody. Since this court operates in the realm of a material universe and its jurisdiction does not depend upon the spiritual sphere, I must hold that when the individual, Rev. Major J. Divine, generally known as Father Divine, speaks, he speaks in his human form and capacity, as a person no different from any other earthly being. He sleeps, eats, drives a car, and receives and pays cash. Whether he inspires faith and a transcendent belief does not concern the court, except as factor in explanation of what has occurred."

The Justice's statement was delivered after reviewing the statement by the plaintiff, Verinda Brown, and the various charges made. Father Divine's answer, contained in a 100-page affidavit, and as the result of a second hearing, in which the plaintiff offered as her chief witness Faithful Mary, a former follower of Father Divine.

"Situation Unprecedented."
Justice McCook further declared the situation unprecedented, saying:

"This motion for the appointment of a receiver of the rents, issues and profits of real estate, and of the rents, issues and profits of rooming and boarding houses and of the business itself, presents an unprecedented situation."

"Defendant Divine unquestionably has some kind of organization or association which is not beyond the bounds of the law and should not be beyond its reach. When a number of persons congregate, at stated times and at specified places, that occurrence is not attributable to a miracle, chance or accident. . . . Father Divine was accepted leader of the group, as person who received, counted and paid out money. He was the presiding director of its collection and use. He participated in the purchase of real property in Ulster county, in the name of followers, actively supervised his business and his business organization, and managed them in many if not all respects. His lieutenants, Lamb, Calloway and Madison, by their conduct in court and their expressions by affidavit, gave force to his unconscious support to the claim set forth by the plaintiff. Their denials and attempts to explain are unconvincing. The evasions in the affidavits are cured by the testimony."

"Receiver Inadvisable."
After further comment, Justice McCook concludes: "In all circumstances a receiver would be appointed to take possession and institute action. The strange facts in this case make such a course inadvisable, save as a last resort, for the court is reluctant to disturb in any part or respect the spiritual work of a religious group. The parties are directed to settle an order providing in the alternative—"

"For a sufficient and adequate bond, in cash or executed by a surety company, and to be approved by a Justice of this Court;"

"For the retention of all personal and real properties in status quo through the service of a proper and effective injunctive order upon all persons who are the record holders of such property;"

"For the appointment of a receiver or receivers." Defendants

Dyer Called to Face Charges He Killed Three Young Girls

Los Angeles, July 8 (AP)—Albert Dyer, accused slayer of three Inglewood girls, was called to court today to plead to an indictment charging him with murder.

Indications were the state would delay the pleading and specify the 23-year-old WPA worker be held for trial within 30 days.

Haskell Wright, director of Centinela Park from where the children disappeared, told authorities he does not believe Dyer is the man he saw talking to the girls. Other persons said they saw the victims, Madeline Everett, 7, her sister, Melba, 9, and Jeanette Stephens, 8, ride away from the park in an automobile.

Dyer, however, said they followed him about on a 1/2 mile trek into the Baldwin Hills.

Vada Sullivan, matron at the county jail where Dyer's wife is held for her own protection, said Mrs. Dyer told her the night of June 26, day of the slayings, her husband warned: "Let the officers to throw them off the track, and protect me."

"I felt all along he had done it," Mrs. Sullivan quoted Mrs. Dyer as saying, "but he beat me with a belt and I was afraid to say anything."

POUGHKEEPSIE FIRM MUST REINSTATE EMPLOYEES
New York, July 8 (AP)—The Federal Bearings Co. of Poughkeepsie today was ordered by the regional office of the National Labor Relations Board to reinstate discharged employees and to refrain from allegedly interfering with union activities.

The order was based on the report of Trial Examiner James C. Batten, made public by Mrs. Eugene M. Harrier, regional director. The respondents were specifically instructed not to urge employees to join the Socialist United Employees Association, and not to discourage membership of employees in Local 297, International Union, United Automobile Workers of

Divine Leads Angels to Greenkill Park for Vacation

The long-planned excursion to the super heaven at Greenkill Park of Father Divine and his followers proved somewhat of a hop for instead of the planned for thousands but 1,755 angels together with Father Divine, who made the 1755th, debarked from the steamer State of Delaware of the Wilson Line at the Stone dock in the rear of the warehouses of the former Hudson River Steamboat Co. about 1:40 o'clock this afternoon.

It was after 1:30 o'clock when the steamer sailed slowly into the Rondout creek and drew up to the dock with the angels aboard singing their songs in praise of Father Divine.

Berthing of the big steamer, a three-decker, was made without difficulty and as soon as the gangplank was thrown out the angels began to leave the steamer, many carrying huge placards which contained inscriptions proclaiming that Father Divine was God together with the word "Peace", the salutation of the members of the cult.

Gay and Colorful
It was a gay and colorful throng that gathered around the busses that were lined up along Ferry street, but some difficulty was at first encountered as there was some question as to the amount of fare the Angels must pay for the trip to the super heaven.

Father Divine and some of his "nearer Angels" climbed into the big red auto parked in front of the Canfield Supply Co. on Ferry street, opposite the dock where the vessel berthed, and Father Divine did not wait to see whether his Angels were to walk or ride but gave the word to his chauffeur, a huge well built negro who stood over 6 feet in height and the car pulled out from the curb and started on the way to the Promised Land.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood had made preparation for the arrival of the State of Delaware and had a large force of officers assigned for duty and at the dock to take care that the angels debarked and were sent enroute without disturbance. Sergeant James V. Simpson was in charge of the detail of police and through the work of the police no untoward incident marred the landing of the angels.

Routed Out of City
All of the angels, both in cars, on foot and in busses, were routed out West Strand and thence into Abel street and escorted to the city line by motorcycle officers of the police department.

Father Divine was dressed in a light Panama suit and hat, and presented a natty appearance as usual.

The arrival of the steamer with its load of Angels was witnessed by several hundred who had gathered out of curiosity.

The departure of the Angels from this city to the super heaven was held up when the Angels either did not have the money or did not want to pay their fare on the busses. Several of the busses left the scene empty.

With a three mile hike before them to the Promised Land the Angels faced no picnic with the sun pouring down overhead and thermometers exposed to the hot rays of Old Sol registering 100

Fliers Carried Foods and Could Vaporize Water from Ocean, If Machine Could Operate That Length of Time.

PUTNAM CHEERED

Putnam Takes Heart as Planes Scour Phoenix Group Southeast of Howland.

San Francisco, July 8 (AP)—Amelia Earhart and Fred Noonan could live a month or more if they landed on an equatorial islet as searchers believed today.

The plane carried chocolate bars, tomato juice, concentrated foods, considerable water, fishing tackle, and a machine to vaporize drinking water from the ocean.

With any luck at fishing and continued operation of the vaporizing machine they could subsist indefinitely.

Also Has Confidence
Omaha, Neb., July 8 (AP)—Confidence that Amelia Earhart and her navigator would be found was expressed by David Blaney Putnam, 24, stevedore of the aviation today en route from Fort Pierce, Fla., to San Francisco to join his father, George Palmer Putnam.

"They'll find her today," he predicted without giving any special reason for his belief. "She's always come through safely before and she'll do it again."

Planes Begin Search.
Honolulu, July 8 (AP)—The eighth search plane of the United States navy was launched today for Amelia Earhart, missing round-the-world flier, who officials here is awaiting rescue on a coral reef or sandpit somewhere southeast of tiny Howland Island.

The battleship Colorado, cruising south and east of Howland, catapulted its three fighting planes last night to open the aerial phase of the hunt undertaken by boat when Miss Earhart failed to arrive at Howland last Friday, on a 2,570 mile flight from New Guinea.

The Colorado's aircraft returned to the battleship after 2 hours and 20 minutes to report no trace had been sighted of the missing plane or of Miss Earhart and her navigator Fred Noonan.

The planes planned to resume their search today at dawn, (12:30 p. m. eastern standard time), cruising over Winslow Reef, 129 miles below the equator and south-east of Howland Island, on the fringe of the Phoenix Island group.

From the vicinity of Winslow Reef the Colorado could catapult her planes into a search of many islets and reefs in the northern Phoenix Islands.

Within flying distance to the southeast would be Canton Island, site of the recent South Pacific eclipse expedition. Some naval officers consider it the most likely spot to look for the round the world fliers.

Also within reach are McKean and Gardner, directly south of the reef. They are the locale of first bearings taken from signals received Sunday by commercial and governmental stations on a wave length of Miss Earhart's radio.

What coast guard officials in San Francisco described as one of the most promising developments in the way of amateur radio messages was reported last night from Conrad, Montana.

Ray Havens, creamery worker, phoned the Great Falls Tribune that at 10:49 p. m. (MST) 12:24 a. m. Thursday, EST) he heard a man's voice giving a position and says "All's well."

A few minutes later, he said, he picked up a second message, which he gave as follows: "Position 173 west longitude and 5 south latitude."

Luke Wright of the Tribune editorial staff immediately tuned in his set of 2105 kilocycles, and reported he heard a voice presumably a man's, but could not distinguish the words.

Message Appears True.
Coast guard officials at San Francisco said the message appeared promising for two reasons. First, the longitude and latitude intersects a spot approximately where they believe the missing fliers are down. Second, the wording of the message sounded authentic.

Rear Admiral C. G. Murfin, 14th Naval District Commandant and director of the mass hunt, predicted success or failure of the widespread operations should be determined by mid-afternoon Monday.

Reluctant the belief of many experts here on the mainland, that Miss Earhart was forced down somewhere in the Phoenix area, Admiral Murfin explained the entire region could quickly be scanned after the arrival of the powerful aircraft carrier Lexington.

Conservative and Liberal Elements of Episcopal Church Debate Remarriage

New York, July 8 (AP)—Conservative and liberal elements of the Protestant Episcopal Church marshalled their respective forces today for what appeared likely to be a summer-long battle over the question of marriage for divorced persons.

First shot, was fired by the church's commission on marriage and divorce with its proposal to liberalize Canon 41, the "divorce canon," by giving the bishop of each diocese almost complete discretionary authority to permit or deny remarriage of divorced persons a year or more after the divorce.

Under the existing laws, which were liberalized in 1931, the church permits re-marriage of the innocent party only in a divorce for adultery.

The proposal will be submitted to the church's general convention in Cincinnati on October 6.

The "Living Church," high church journal, will fire the second shot in its coming issue with an editorial charging that the proposed amendment would "negate the teachings of Christ" and throw the "marriage problem into chaos."

The Right Rev. William T. Manning, bishop of New York, long opposed to such liberalization of the "divorce canon," was expected to take a leading role in the fight against the proposed amendment.

Children Took Many Prizes at Village Picnic

Woodstock, July 7.—Woodstock children won many awards on Monday in athletic events which took place in the Woodstock baseball field as part of the Fourth of July community picnic.

The picnic and field day was sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association under the capable direction of Mrs. Bessie Cohn and Mrs. George Layman, president of the association. They were encouraged to attempt this community celebration by the success and popularity of the children's day of the sesquicentennial.

The cooperation of the Woodstock town board, the American Legion and Woodstock business men made the occasion possible. John Barnes and Joseph Fildburg of the Legion, conducted the games and Captain Monahan was on hand to be of general assistance. Medals were provided by Eugene Spelcher, Heckleoth and Barnes Fred Ziegler Harold Seism, Eugene Schelcher, George Neher, Will Elwyn Warren Harty, George Layman and the American Legion. The town board contributed the silver cup, awarded to the school winning the most medals. A parent witnessing the events of the day was so pleased with the results that she contributed $6 toward expenses.

The events are the first in a series of annual athletic meets to be held here. Children from all districts were invited to compete for individual awards and a school cup.

Foot races, wheelbarrow race, bicycle race and jumping contests were held. The cup was won by the Woodstock school in whose custody it will remain until next year's events, when Woodstock either will re-win the cup or will relinquish it to another school in the township.

The evening opened with a basket picnic, after which the games were held.

The most exciting of the races was a one mile handicap bicycle race, won by Jack Peacock, who collapsed after the race. He already had competed in other races and won third place in the 60-yard dash. He was given first aid treatment on the field and taken to Dr. Bassow, who pronounced him all right. He was quite the hero of the day among the many participants and onlookers and was awarded the gold medal. Second prize, a silver medal, went to Wilbur Mundy.

In the 60-yard dash, Peter Shultis won first prize, Maydn Ames second, and Jerry Cohn third.

In the 70-yard dash, Ord Morrell and Jack Peacock tied for second and third place.

In the 70-yard dash, Ord Morrell and Wilbur Mundy tied for first place. The two boys ran again, this time Wilbur Mundy coming in first. Ord Morrell received second prize and Clarence Finch third.

In the girls' 50-yard dash, Nancy Cooper won first, Joan Longendyke second and Marcell Howland of Shady third.

In the girls' 60 yard dash, Vera Salomon won first, and Dorothea Salomon second and Cynthia Martin third.

The husband and wife wheelbarrow handicap race was won by Mr and Mrs Ernest Earley. Mr and Mrs Gus Schrader were second and the Rev. Harvey I. Todd and Mrs. Todd third.

In the first running broad jump, Ord Morrell, Clarence Finch and Harvey Finch were winners with top distances of 12 feet, 12 inches, 11 feet, 2 inches and 11 feet respectively.

In the second running broad jump, Richard Bunn was first with a distance of 14 feet, 10 inches. Morton Taylor second with 10 feet four inches and Perry Franchling third with 10 feet, two inches. Richard Bunn's distance so pleased the onlookers that he was asked to give an exhibition of his jumping.

Immediately after the contests the medals were presented to the proud winners.

The venture this year brought about such enthusiastic support and cooperation from young and old alike that next year's events are to be more carefully planned.

Safford, Ariz.—A destructive 60-mile river has come into being near here as the result of farmers' attempts to "improve" a vast, once-fertile valley.

Now the government is trying to check the Frankenstein by planting grass and creosote bushes along its banks. It is estimated $840,000 must be spent to salvage what is left of the 750,000 acres of farm and grazing land in San Simon valley, through which the new stream makes its way.

First described by the late Will C. Barnes, Arizona pioneer and writer, the rich valley quickly attracted farmers and Texas cattlemen. Annoyed by spring freshets, the settlers dug a small drainage ditch and ploughed furrows to direct the water into it.

From this beginning the San Simon river sprang, attaining a depth of 30 feet and spreading to a width of several hundred feet. When rain falls, many tons of soil are washed away and networks of muddy gorges replace the "beautiful grassy meadows" that awakened Barnes' admiration back in 1882.

Soil conservation engineers will try to "anchor" adjacent soil by planting the native shrubs.

SLOW-DRIVING PERIL.

"Sunday drivers" drive too slowly, according to Col. Lynn Jack, superintendent of the Ohio Highway Patrol. As a result, they cause an extremely high percentage of accidents. He rates them not very far behind "drunken drivers" in the harm they do.

Those same slow drivers are probably interested in gazing at the Sabbath scenery, and in saving gas, rather than getting somewhere. And morally they deserve sympathy and support.
 But practically, this authority holds, they are road pests and maniacs, when they do their dawdling on the main highways.
 If they want to dream and dawdle, they had better do it on the side roads. Jalloppies that won't go any faster should be scrapped.

The best practical speed rule, in general, is the simple rule of "going with the traffic." That keeps the driving in the rhythm of the procession. It saves drivers behind him, who may really have reason to hurry, from taking rash chances in shooting ahead. It keeps the road space between cars reasonably filled with an orderly, though rapid, succession of cars, tending to prevent jams and clogs. The ideal condition, naturally, is a modern roadway with four or five lanes, in which every driver may safely choose his speed-lane and hold to it. But it will be many years before that ideal prevails.

MINING THE SEA

Some of the nations who are complaining that they lack mineral wealth, and so have to fight for foreign territory containing it, might try mining the sea. There is plenty of wealth there.

At American company, which extracts bromine from sea water to make anti-knock fuel, chemis-tists obtained 5,000 tons of that valuable substance last year, and will double its output next year.
 Along with the chemical it, there were $40,000 worth of gold and large quantities of silver, iron, copper, aluminum, magnesium, iodine, calcium, potassium, chlo-ride, opson salts and other stuff.

Nearly everything pours into the sea, as the earth melts down through the ages. It is a supernatural and inexhaustible mine, which will doubtless be worked vastly more in the future than it ever has been in the past. Its wealth of minerals and other living things is trivial compared with its mineral wealth. It may eventually supply our iron, copper and other essential metals. It can be tapped anywhere, when the processes and plants are available.
 And some scientists dream of doing it with the sea's own power, harnessing the tides for that purpose. When that time comes, maybe the Passamaquoddy project will have a new lease of life.

HUGH BUSTS LOOSE

Some Americans have felt all along that the departure of General Hugh Johnson from his eminence at Washington was less of a loss to government than to literature. He had a rare knack of restoring the English language to a sort of Elizabethan splendor.
 Even now his tongue has not lost its tags nor his typewriter its cunning. Here is a recent passage from his syndicated newspaper column.

In the labyrinthine maze of Washington there has always been a brilliant, if incandescent, jumble of self-styled intelligence. To them the Constitution is a musty and useless relic. Accordingly, to them, anybody who doesn't agree with them is an obscurity. If you complain, the Treasury's tax OGPU hits your trail.

This crowd originally centered on a springboard of self-interest young radicals planted by Dr. Federick Frankfurter at various strategic points throughout the administration. The many another crop of dragons' teeth, or incubation of unknown off, they have at last out-bred, even Federick Frankfurter, who is said to be standing on the brink of the Washington pool, and agitated at his own

 There is always some Scheherezade dispensation for Arabian Nights entertainment at the fair-haired favorite of the political baron at Baghdad on the Pointinae. Just now it happens to be the most conspicuously brilliant oddball of all the pinkish Georgetown intellectual baggies.

And so on. We may not know what it means, but it certainly sounds grand. The General has found his calling—and when he calls 'em, they stay called.

GOING UP.

Everything is certainly on the up and up in this country. The federal income tax collections for the fiscal year just ended were above expectations. So, too, alas, were the federal outgo and deficits.

Business continues improving, in spite of slight seasonal, weather-and labor-strife setbacks. We are warned that the cost of living is still going up. Politics certainly knows no slumps, but rises in heat and complications as local and state elections approach and as a congressional election year looms on the horizon.

Considering the calendar, it is safe to predict the temperature with hit the top any day, now, minus touring figures, accidents, plagues and all the rest.
 The rainfall has already run up excess precipitation totals. Oh, well, we can stand it.

VARICOSE ULCERS

A common and distressing sight around hospitals and clinics is the number of middle-aged and elderly men and women with varicose ulcers and large varicose veins in the legs.

By rest and the use of various ointments many of these ulcers heal for the time being but after a short period of time doing household or other work the ulcers break down and the varicose veins stand out larger than ever.

Fortunately with the introduction of the method of injecting these veins many cases of months and years standing have been cured. But notwithstanding this method and others, there are still many cases that have been too difficult to cure.

What may be a boon to these patients and to hospital authorities where beds are badly needed for patients acutely ill, is reported by Dr. A. Eldenow, St. John Clinic, London, in the British Medical Journal.

When Dr. Eldenow took charge of the "light" department, ninety-two patients suffering from varicose ulcers and varicose eczema had been attending once or twice a week for more than three years.

Although they had regularly received local treatment with ultraviolet rays from a tungsten arc, their ulcers and eczema did not heal.

The treatment was changed and after three months sixty-six of these patients were completely healed and discharged cured.
 This new treatment consisted of
 (1) exposing the ulcer and from 1 1/2 to 2 inches of surrounding skin to massive doses of rays from the quartz arc cooled mercury vapor lamp and (2) application of adhesive bandages.
 This treatment sterilizes (removes organisms and wastes) the surface of the ulcer and stimulates the circulation; this promotes healing and makes the surface wound less offensive and free from unpleasant odor. The adhesive bandage which is applied from ankle to knee is left on for one week. The bandage is then removed, the skin cleansed, the light treatment given and bandages applied. Week by week the ulcer area becomes smaller until healing finally occurs. In the past five years 240 ulcers have been treated, 90 per cent of which have been healed within six months.

The same treatment was given for varicose eczema with equally successful results. It must be remembered of course that these results were obtained under the direction of one skilled in this form of light treatment.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: When Ray Cran-don's Lazy Nine ranch house and barn burn, Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy her back and court Kay. But she hates him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Ted Gaylor, a puncher who impulsively lived, sits the outfit to cut its own time and rebuild without pay. Hastings sends his cowboy Scrap Johnson to tie up the only available timber land. But Ted wins the option race, then whips Scrap finds Scrap on the mesa and berates him, but Scrap turns the tables by deftly snatching his boss's gun. He takes his horse, sending him home afoot.

Chapter 20
 Chance For Revenge

ALTERNATING between thoughts of Ted Gaylor as a rival, and his fury at Scrap Johnson, Josh Hastings found himself cherishing two distinct plans of revenge.

First of all, he meant to make his former puncher pay through the nose for his insolence, and his plan here was definite and drastic, although it had to be handled with care.

He had no idea of telling the whole story of his plight, and being the laughing stock of the range.
 So this prevented him from calling the sheriff to his aid, and following on the trail of Scrap Johnson with a posse.

He had a hunch that Scrap was headed for the Idaho state line, and that he planned to make his getaway through the one nest that over the Butte Root from this region.

If he followed right after him, there was a good chance of overtaking him. Scrap Johnson would be pretty sure to figure that his one-time boss would rather lose his mount and call quits on the situation than let the story leak out of the fix his cowboy had landed in. Therefore, he wouldn't feel pressed for time, and it would be a fairly easy matter to catch up with him.

"And there won't be any doubt about who'll have the drop this time!" Josh Hastings thought, voiced itself aloud, with a malignant intensity of tone that boded ill for Scrap Johnson when that moment should come.

He stooped down to ease the heel of his boot, then limped along with a groan.

"Hell pay for that damn blister, too," he muttered savagely, as he forced his aching eyes squinted into the distance for a glimpse of the scattered buildings of the Flying Six.

Finally he loomed in sight, and Josh Hastings slowed up as he planned his campaign of action.
 Then, regardless of his blistered feet, he broke into a run for a nearby coulee. He had no time to lose if he was going to make the lower coulee and get a horse without being seen.

When he had left the ranch to follow Scrap Johnson, he had announced that he might spend the night in town, so no one was expecting him. Right now the boys would be either in the mess shack or gathered around waiting for the supper call, so here was his chance for a safe getaway.

At the Central Divide
 FOLLOWING the coulee, he came at last to the lower corral, which was hidden from the ranch buildings, and located a good 300 yards distant from the upper corral.

Roping himself a horse, Josh Hastings quickly saddled him and rode back to the coulee which sheltered him from view.
 He gave the ranch house a wide berth, and headed off for the mountains at a run.

It was more than an hour later when he reached the trail that eventually led to the pass across the divide.

The last streams of color from the afterglow of the sunset were fading into light pinks and lavenders, and twilight was well under way, as he started up the steep climb between the living walls of pines.

Only the faintest light penetrated through the thick branches that interlaced overhead, but Josh Hastings pushed on, his lust for revenge still strong upon him.

There would be a moon later to guide him through the pass in the saddle of the divide's profile, if he had not overtaken his victim by that time. But he figured he would come upon him before reaching the central divide.

Urging his horse on, he finally emerged from the heavily timbered slope of the eastern divide and, topping the ridge, plunged down to the shallow valley that lay between the central divide and the divide's profile, if he had not overtaken his victim by
 that time. But he figured he would come upon him before reaching the
 central divide.

The light of the rising moon gradually spread over the whole landscape, and by the time he reached the crest of the pass it was high in the heavens.

The Literary Digest has announced that it is merging with the Review of Reviews and will be "a news, interpretative and review magazine." What? No more political polka!

Just beyond the saddle of rock was a small grassy plateau, which harbored a spring-fed stream.
 From its mysterious depths water flowed in both directions, part seeking the Butte Root river in Montana, and part flowing to the Clear Water river in Idaho.

As Hastings neared this strange spot, his mount plunged restively, and instead of making for the inviting water that gleamed ahead in the moonlight, he balked and tried to whirl back and head toward the pass again. Hastings tumbled the animal and, urging him on with a sharp cut of his quirt, reached the small grassy meadow that bordered the stream.

Poering ahead through the moonlight, he made out a strange, hunched form lying by the edge of the water.

He swung his mount sharply at right angles and headed him away from the gruesome discovery. Dis-mounting at some little distance, he came back on foot to investigate, a baffled sense of rage rising in him at the thought of being "chewed out" by his range.

He turned over the inert figure, then let out a startled oath as he gazed at the deadly white face which he had exposed to the moonlight.

Instead of the pinched features of Scrap Johnson that he had expected to see, the still face of Ted Gaylor in its frame of glossy black hair, stared up at him.

The Trail of Blood

RECOLLING in the first surprise of finding his other enemy so unexpectedly delivered into his hands, Josh Hastings started back at the seemingly dead face for a long moment. Then he dropped on his knees, and placed a hand over Ted's heart.

A grunt of disappointment escaped him as he detected a faint beat. But after examining the wound that gaped in the fallen man's chest, a grim smile of satisfaction flickered for a moment on his face.

"Look on a good enough job's been done on you, after all," he observed coolly. He rose to his feet and stooped down to pull some grass to wipe the blood off his hands.

"Scrap Johnson's saved me some trouble there, all right!"

He scanned the ground carefully, walking back and forth in an ever widening semi-circle around the wounded man. "Looks like he got a shot from ambush," he mused aloud, as he failed to find any traces of footprints or trampled grass.

"Hello! What's this?" He stopped short and bent down to examine a large flat stone, that harbored a strange dark spot on its rough gray surface.

Josh Hastings experimentally stuck his finger in it, and exploded with a gasp as he pulled it back, covered with a sticky red stain.

"Begins to look more like a duel!"

He leaned down close, and found several more dark spots, leading away from the stone. Following them, he came to some trampled grass and, with growing excitement, followed in the vague tracks.

After going 50 feet or so, he came at last on the object of his search. A dark form lay in the underbrush by the edge of the grassy spot, and this time Josh Hastings leaned close to identify this second victim, he saw the man he had expected to find in the first place.

A brief examination showed him to be far less seriously wounded than Ted Gaylor. He had evidently fainted from loss of blood from a flesh wound in his arm, but his pulse and his heart both seemed strong.

An ugly look twisted Josh Hastings' mouth, as he stood looking down at the man he had pursued with such ruthless intent for vengeance. A cunning gleam came into his eyes as he glanced back to where Ted Gaylor lay.

It was easy enough to reconstruct what had happened. Scrap Johnson had undoubtedly won the draw and fired first, and Gaylor's shot had gone wild, first catching by chance the fleshy part of Johnson's arm.

There wasn't a doubt in Josh Hastings' mind that Ted Gaylor was done for, but just in case he might, by some miracle, pull through, why not frame him, so that the suspicion of what he was about to do would be forever pinned on this hateful enemy of his?

He now had the chance to fix things so that no question would ever be raised about how Scrap Johnson met his end. Dead or alive, Ted Gaylor would be held responsible.

Working his dastardly plot out step by step, Josh Hastings took off his bandanna and wrapped it carefully about his hand. Then he went swiftly back to where Ted Gaylor lay.

Man About
Manhattan

BY GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK.—Table-tottering has almost become a lost art in New York, although Guthrie McClintic, Dwight Fiske, Christopher Morley and a few others still cling to the practice of passing whole days at one cloth in a favorite restaurant.

The late Ring Lardner, a fastidious diner, once spent 72 hours at his table in a 45th street cafe, explaining that such a stay was not too long for a man who wanted to really savor the choice delicacies on a first class menu.

BUT today one seizes a waiter by the arm, shouts an order, gulps it down and hurries away. The answer is that leisure, like lavender and old lace, is a word that sounds nice but doesn't mean much in an age when life rushes past like a river in spring flood.

It was long ago really was content to sit by and watch life and the hours slip quietly past—if he were seated in a favorite restaurant nibbling pleasant confections and sipping inexhaustible cups of java.

There was the time a friend took him to lunch and after an hour's chat, got up and went away. Several days later the friend came back and Lardner was still there.
 "It's like this," Lardner explained. "I know the manager and he's letting me spend my vacation here."

DWIGHT FISKE, the piano racateur, consumes several hours over breakfast alone. Guests are often perturbed over the Fiske deliberation, for not wishing to appear rude, they attempt, but by time you have finished breakfast, read the morning paper, telephoned the office, and perhaps indulged in a brisk turn around the park, he is only finishing his orange juice. "Dining is such a pleasure that I try to prolong it indefinitely," he confesses.

Guthrie McClintic, the producer, is another whose breakfast is a ritual lasting several hours. He will read several plays between cereal and eggs. Charlie MacArthur might also be classed as one who deliberates over his food, although this is not always the case.
 Charles is such an omnivorous talker that he really doesn't get a chance to eat with any with his food. Once in a night club a steak was set before this Irish gadabout, but 40 minutes later Charlie was still talking, and the waiter courteously removed it, supplanting it with a fresh, hot one. MacArthur never knew it until his companion told him the next day.

Another who feels keenly on this subject is Christopher Morley.
 He is the founder of the Three Hours For Lunch Club.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

By Associated Press

New York—It's "twin insurance," advertise one New York department store, to buy its particular layettes for the expected baby.

If twins, triplets, "or even quins" arrive after one of these layettes has been purchased, the store will provide an identical layette for each additional surprise arrival, at no extra cost.

Each Right, Each Wrong

Los Angeles—Ten Chinese, charged with violating the narcotics law, were in the U. S. Marshall's office to give bond. "As I call your names, step forward," said the clerk. He began, "Wong."

There was a commotion as nine of the Chinese stepped forward.

Still Marching

Salem, Ore.—U. S. Army Recruiting Sergeant Joseph Scarpa signed up three successive pickets who paraded in front of a non-union meat market here, but the supply of recruits was cut off when the union assigned a woman to replace the last "deserter."

"Misplaced"—By Miles

Chicago—Miss Dorothy Stewart of Joliet, Ill., was skeptical when, returning unexpectedly to a parking lot, was told her automobile had been "misplaced."

It's A Circus The Way Farmer Makes A Living

BENSON: Forced To Make Money

By CHARLES NORMAN
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Nashua, N. H.—John T. Benson bought some land hereabout for a refuge in his old age, but the call of the wild was in his blood.

His father had been an animal trainer, animal training was the only trade he knew, and soon he was making trips abroad to bring back jungle beasts to train for zoos and circuses. First thing he knew, the farmers of this region and the hired hands were coming over to his farm to get a peek at the wild doings, and he had to begin charging admission to control the crowds. He just had to.

Now "jungle trains" of the Boston and Maine railroad roar into Nashua on summer Sundays bearing hundreds of eager children and their parents to Benson's "Wild Animal Farm," and automobiles with license plates from all the New England states clog the roads, bringing an estimated 25,000 "cash customers" to see the animals go through their paces.

Paying Business

It's a paying business Mr. Benson was forced into, and that brings up the concessions, because it stands to reason that many people will be wanting lunches and ice cream, and popcorn, and pop. They get it. And it costs extra to get into "Noah's Ark," and the "flex circus," and for pony and elephant rides for the youngsters. A good time is had by all. Of course, the "big moments," at the farm come when lions and tigers and elephants are brought into the ring and made to toe the mark, but there's so much going on that thousands of people just mill around, taking in the sights. Some of the sights are slightly sadistic.

To begin, when you enter the animal farm, you pass a number of concrete frames, big ones they are, containing the bones of re-paired beasts. "The Last of Old

BEST: "Only Elephant in T he World Who Can Do This"

John," says the legend under the skeleton of a Rhinoceros, Bar-num and Bailey elephant. There's a skeleton of a horse, too, which elicits "ohs" and "ahs" from youngsters. Then there's a corral with two slots. The first is "Healthy Old Horse Wanted." The second gets to the point "For Animal Food." The crowd gathers at an old fat horse looking over a fence to meadows he'll never browse in.

Walking in and out of the crowds are a big downy hen and a monster dressed up in a pig. On the outskirts of the park is the office of John T. Benson, Jr., in the midst of piles and stacks of boots, photographs of animals and human mounted lions.

THE ROOSTER: Wears Pants

chains and other jungle paraphernalia. He is 67 years old, with cold blue eyes that are a contrast to the radiant smile that floods his big face when he feels expansive. He looks expansive when strangers tell him how much they like his place or when they ask questions he likes to answer.

How Accidents Are Avoided

"We" he says, "we don't have accidents. Accidents are due to carelessness. I select animals for purposes and then train them. We don't pick a lion to roam for a lion. Of course not. Not or do I pick animals that are not suited for the risks we teach them. In that way a dangerous accident hazard is avoided. We don't whip our animal. We have only trainers here, not performers."

Take Betty, the only elephant in the world, he went on, like a circus barker, "the only elephant in the world that can go through a crowd and carry children on its back. Sure they have elephants that carry children in London and Cleveland, but they're in an enclosure. Betty goes through the crowd."

With remarkable unanimity the Grange in all the states is making a hard fight against the diversion of motor fees from other than highway building and main tenance, and in many of the states the Grange is the leading factor in such a campaign.

Farmers cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service in its program of erosion control have retired 250,000 acres of steeply sloping or severely eroded croplands to trees and shrubs. Under proper management farm woodlands are not the wastelands that many farmers have considered them to be, according to J. F. Preston, forester of the Soil Conservation Service. Proper management means fire prevention, adapted trees, thinning, and protection from grazing animals.

Two of the paintings sold are by Brower water colors from one-man show now current in gallery. Both are rich in the color and atmosphere of Tobago, B. I., where they were painted. The other two paintings are a water color by Austin Mecklen, and one of the small oils painted by Eugene Ludus while in New Mexico last winter. The purchasers, visiting in Woodstock, are from New York city.

The exhibitors whose work has been accepted by the directors which passes on all work submitted are Allan Gould, who is exhibiting a modernistic oil, "Wood-dewhead"; Alice Dineen, who exhibits a water color, "Lady Slippers"; Kenneth Downer, showing Brittany watercolors, and Miss Pennington West, showing a large brilliantly colored "Kitchen Interior." They are all exhibiting in Woodstock for the first time.

Paul Gray, whose work has been chosen for the second one-man show of the season will exhibit 15 or 20 oils, starting on Friday, July 9, for a two weeks show.

SECRETS OF CONVERSATION

Good conversation! That's what makes friends for you—encourages them to drop in, ask you out, call up.

Sparking conversation doesn't take a brilliant mind. Just observe a few do's and don'ts.

- The Do's
1. Refer to the other fellow's tastes. "I had an idea you'd feel that way about it" or "Did you see that article about your favorite movie star, Bill?" Notice the friendly touch of the name.
 2. Use a confident tone. "I know that my experience on the bus will amuse you," not a weak and timid "I didn't tell you, did I, about my experience on the bus?"
 3. Learn the names that make news by reading the papers. Glance at the headlines, at least, on the sports pages if you'd interest men. Often that's the first page they read.
- Our 40-page booklet, IMPROVING YOUR CONVERSATION, helps you overcome self-consciousness in talking. How to open a conversation, what to say, how to steer as you'd have it go.
- Send 15c for our booklet, IMPROVING YOUR CONVERSATION, to Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Institute, 109 West 19th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those annoying nagging painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved with an extract of the natural way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 30 quarts of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't do a full job, poisons waste to gather in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, loss of pep and energy, a tingling or prickling, swelling, puffiness, redness, heat, etc. in the kidneys.

Don't wait—get a doctor for Doan's. It's a successful remedy for millions of people who have tried it. It will help the kidneys to do their job and get rid of poisons waste out of the blood. Get Doan's today.

NAVIGATION NOTES

The yard of the Reliance Marine Corp. of Wilbur is a busy place with several barges undergoing repairs. The barge Oille, which was damaged some weeks ago in a collision on the Barge Canal, is now at the Reliance yard, along with the canal barge Whiteport. The covered cement barge East Branch, last of the four similar boats purchased by the Connors Marine Corp., and overhauled at the local yard, is now completed and ready to move out for traffic in New York harbor. The East Branch has been painted a box-car red with a large white Connors and the name imprinted on its sides.

The diesel tug Thomas A. Freney was in drydock at Hillbrant's at South Rondout last Thursday, where she received a new wheel. Word was received this morning that the Freney had arrived at Rochester with the oil barge Onondaga carrying a cargo of fuel oil for the upstate city.

The barges Marie Thurston, Davin, Andy and Barbara arrived at Middletown in charge of the tug Sterling, property of the Island Dock interests, to discharge their cargoes of sulphur.

The Connors tug Mollie towed the barges W. Frank Buster, Mary K. and Agnes C into Soda Ash Basin on July 5. The barges M. J. Woods, Mary E. Doe, and Rose also arrived at Soda Ash Basin in charge of the tug Dynamite.

At the present time the Hillbrant yard at South Rondout is occupied with the repairing of several scows and the building of another new coal barge. Two barges that are being repaired are the E. H. Steigh and the Elaine. Three tugs are berthed at the yard, the Pine Grove, Mabel and Empire No. 3, and a steam canal, the James W. Follette, is tied to the dock at the upper end of the yard. For the first time this year on the visit of the reporter, the drydocks were empty, but this was only momentarily, and no doubt today would find a tug or a barge resting high and dry in one or both of the large docks.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Only member of Fred Waring's swing gang not under contract to the maestro was Johnny Davis.

Johnny Davis, who worked with the rest in "Varsity Show" and Warner Bros. adjusted his contractless existence.

He'd been with Waring five years, didn't want a contract. . . . But being a movie comedian was different. . . .

Looks like an inter-studio in print, at least, for a story property. . . . "Room Service" went to Warner's for a reported $250,000.

Columbia was supposed to have paid $200,000 for "You Can't Take It With You." . . . Goldwyn dished out $165,000 for "Dead End," with adaptation costs running the ante around $205,000. . . . There's a mark for a playwright to shoot at: to be first to sell out for a million. . . . Once upon a time

Anita Loos got $15 per scenario . . . and thought she was making money, too. . . .

Paul Guilfoyle, after seeing a movie, found a strange young woman in his car. . . . She demanded to be taken home. . . . He did. . . . But drove through Westwood to pick up Mrs. Guilfoyle first. . . .

Cause For Grouches

After catching the last half of "That Man's Here Again" at a preview, I see why Hugh Herbert groaned at stardom in it. He's pleased about "Singing Marine," however. . . . I think because he gets to play himself and his own sister in it. . . . Hugh's wearing a brilliant sports coat. . . . Dark blue generously shot with bright blue. . . . Came from Mrs. James Cagney's wool shop. . . . which in turn came from Mrs. Jim's interest in hand-weaving. . . . Gings and Mrs. Rogers are living in their new home while the carpenters finish building it. . . . They even had a dinner party for Harriet Hilliard and Ozzie Nelson. . . . Gings sleeps in an over-sized bed. . . . so big, says Mrs. Rogers, that one morning a couple of carpenters went in her room, fixed some gadgets, and went out again without ever noticing that Gings was asleep somewhere in the broad expanse. . . .

Blushing Contest

Fred Astaire blushes when fans ask him for autographs. Real, crimson-red blushes. Just from embarrassment. He'll sign 'em, but doesn't see why the fans want 'em.

Sometimes the fan is as embarrassed as he is, and then it's a blushing contest. William Demarest, who plays tough mugs in the movies, makes interior decorating his hobby.

against him. Harry Carey and John Beal head the players.

Orpheum: "Damaged Goods." In line with the country's fight to educate the people on the matter of venereal disease comes this film story of the tragedy of innocence and its resulting consequences. It is a timely picture, dressed up for public consumption with a plot that revolves around the misfortune of ignorance and how one person's error can affect the lives and health of many.

Tomorrow Broadway: Same.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "That Man's Here Again" and "Lightning Cradall." The story of Hugh Herbert's first starring role in the first attraction on the

Orpheum double feature bill, a comedy built around his funny but limited talents. Again, as in his other efforts, he plays the role of a bewildered old playboy out for fun and frivolity. "Lightning Cradall" is a western melodrama with hard riding, hard gun throwing and plenty of action. Bob Steele is the star.

The National Resources committee found that public affairs in the United States, in 1936, were administered by 175,000 separate federal, state and local agencies.

Not Guilty, Says Postmaster

New York, July 7.—(Special)—A plea of not guilty was made in United States District Court here today by Herbert O'Hara, former postmaster at Haines Falls to an indictment charging him with defrauding the Government. He was released pending trial in bail of $500.

O'Hara allegedly issued money orders to his own order and to others without turning over the equivalent money to the Post Office Department. The offenses took place between 1935 and 1937, the indictment states.

Shokan, July 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Latham of Jamaica, L. I., are guests at the James Carpenter camp along the Ridge road. Mr. Latham is a lawyer and district vice president of the State Young Men's Republican Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo McCune of Brooklyn spent the Fourth at the summer home of their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wallerstein. Mrs. Lily Martins of New York was a week-end visitor at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Jane Stubley.

Elwyn Winchell, III for several weeks, is again able to get out of doors for brief periods each day. Louis Thiel, state road farmer, finds ducks much easier to raise than chickens. Mr. Thiel's big flock of ducks have one peculiarity, however, which causes their owner some little bother. They lay their eggs in the water, in the mud or wherever the mood strikes them; otherwise their care is practically negligible.

Brooklyn young men at the Francis Doyle camp over the holiday included the following: Edward Smith, George Drysten, Kenneth Olsen, Percy Rogers, Fred Glacina, Jack Meagher and Buzz Donovan.

Russell Satterlee, well known hotel man of Kingston, who died Monday, was well known here 30 and more years ago. A son of the late Henry Satterlee of the Boiceville hill road, he kept a hotel in the old village for several years. The old Satterlee place is now the summer residence of C. N. Foster of Englewood, N. J.

Mrs. Philip Chopay and son, George, of Springfield, L. I., came up to be with Mrs. Chopay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Giles, over the holiday. Little George will remain with his grandparents for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Olsen and daughters, Mildred and Shirley, of Brooklyn, have been spending several days at the J. Card lodge in the village center. Cameras were much in evidence during the holiday at the aerator basin, upper gate chamber and other central attractions of the Ashokan Reservoir. One enthusiast was seen totting a big camera, tripod and all, in the vicinity of Smith Park and the main dam. The number of snapshots taken in the reservoir country on an average summer week-end must run well into the thousands.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Gearon of Brooklyn, arrived Saturday at "Windridge," the Gearon summer home on Church Hill.

Charles Dulaff has installed some additional sawing machinery in his new annex at the Boiceville sawmill. Mr. Dulaff has been cleaning up the winter's accumulation of odds and ends of logs on the mill-yard.

July 6, 1952, the Rev. John W. Hammond, who had accepted a call to the Shokan Dutch Church on June 1, was installed as pastor. Sermon was by the Rev. Mr. Gulick of Woodstock; charge to minister by the Rev. Mr. Eckel, and by the people by the Rev. Mr. Snyder. Domine Hammond was a grandfather of Jay Ennist of Highland and a great-grandfather of Mrs. Arthur Oudemool of Kingston.

J. Block of New York is enjoying his vacation at the summer home of Joseph Reilly.

Brooklyn young women at the Card summer home included the Misses Marion Card, Helen Kelly and Mildred Friedrich.

A swimming pool, designed as one of the largest in the Catskills, is being built at Chalet Indian, site of the Brunell Indian monuments on the north boulevard.

C. G. Fuller, who has given up her apartment in New York, had her household effects brought up to her Mountain Laurel Lodge last week.

Louis Knapp, manager of the Leonard Colange general store, is having a bungalow erected on the hill road to Boiceville.

Tammany May Name Al Smith

New York July 8 (AP).—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith was mentioned today as a possible Tammany candidate for the New York mayoralty this fall to oppose Fiorello H. La Guardia, Fusion incumbent.

With Democratic leaders here convinced United States Senator Robert F. Wagner will refuse to carry the Tammany banner, a scheduled meeting of the city's five county Democratic leaders to agree on a candidate was called off today.

Instead, it was learned, Tammany leader James J. Dooling will first consult Smith, arriving late today on the United States liner Manhattan, should Smith decline to run, his advice and influence will be asked to help bring order into a Democratic situation fast developing into a free-for-all in New York city.

No less than thirty-two potential Democratic candidates have been publicly named, and of these a half dozen candidates are being put forward now that Wagner's refusal appears certain.

First among them was Manhattan's Borough President Samuel Levy. He lined up alongside Frank J. Prial who will contest the city comptrollership with the incumbent, Frank Taylor, Brooklyn organization favorite.

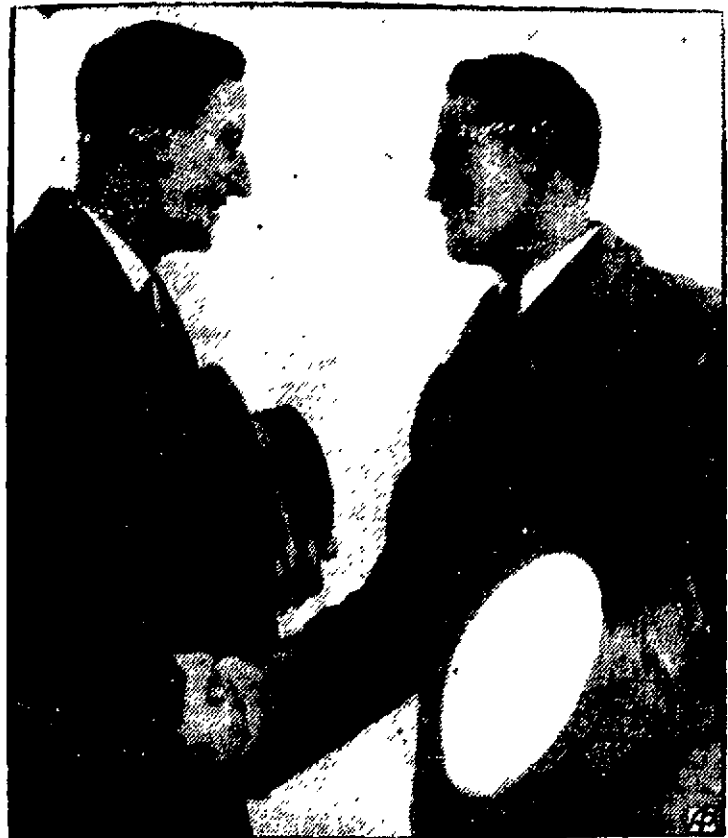

Other names brought to the front by supporters today were those of Grover Whalen, now in charge of preparations for New York's 1939 world's fair, and Edward P. Mulhoney, police commissioner in the days of Mayor James J. Walker and now state corrections commissioner.

As Democratic unrest appeared on the increase, Republican factions were reported on the point of agreeing to back La Guardia. A group of Republicans planned to ask him formally, late today, to run for the Republican nomination.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, July 8.—A crowd reminding of the good old days invited out to the Fourth of July and Homecoming celebration held Monday afternoon and evening at Samsonville. Music and plenty of it was furnished by the Phenicia band. Supper was served in the church hall onward from 6 o'clock. Firecrackers and a fine display of fireworks were much in evidence during the evening. All available

CLIPPER SKIPPER WELCOMED

Ireland's President Eamon de Valera congratulates Harold E. Gray, commander of the Pan-American clipper plane after it lands in Foynes, Ire., to end the first west-east survey flight for commercial routes.

refreshments were swept clean, and the crowd was hesitant to take leave until after the band played its final good night selection after 11 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Hayes will entertain their staff of employees and their families Saturday evening at a chicken dinner to be served at the Baptist Church by the Ladies' Aid Society. Reservations have been made for 70. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes are the owners of the former Sigourney estate at Watson Hollow.

William Quick of Olive Bridge had the misfortune to fall on the docks late Friday night while fishing at the Weir, sustaining a fractured hip. He was later conveyed by ambulance to the Beneditine Hospital.

Will Release "Saratoga"

Hollywood, July 8 (AP).—Jean Harlow's last picture "Saratoga" will be released July 25. The $500,000 production, in which the blonde actress co-starred with Clark Gable, was nearly shelved at the time of her death. For long shots, which Miss Harlow had not completed when she died, a contract player, Mary Dees, was substituted.

SEEKS AMELIA

Commander W. K. Thompson (above) of the Coast Guard cutter, Itasca, directs that ship's search for the missing fliers, Amelia Earhart and Frederick J. Noonan, who are thought to be down near the tiny island of Howland in the Pacific.

Earhart, Noonan Could Live Month

ington and its complement of planes. He estimated a thorough search of the islands could be made in six hours.

The Lexington, cutting across the Pacific at 33 knots (nearly 38 miles an hour), was due here at 8 p. m. (eastern standard time). It was to refuel and speed immediately toward Howland, more than 1,500 miles southwest.

Search turns to Phoenix Is. Naval and coastguard authorities saw in the fruitless hunt north and west of Howland Island support for their belief the round-the-world fliers alighted in the Phoenix area.

The coast guard cutter Itasca and navy mine sweeper Swan, acting on a mysterious, garbled radio message interpreted to have come from about 280 miles north of Howland, swept over an area of more than 104,000 square miles north and west of Howland, without result.

The Itasca, acting now under orders to coordinate the search, contacted the Colorado off Howland yesterday and replenished its depleted supplies of fuel and drinking water. The hunt to the north of Howland was abandoned, at least temporarily, as the cutter joined in the search to southward.

In San Francisco, George Palmer Putnam, Miss Earhart's husband, expressed gratification over the shift in the search. He has clung consistently to the belief his wife and Noonan were in the Phoenix area.

TILLSON

Tillson, July 8.—As a result of the New York State Regents the following pupils graduated from the Tillson school: Eleanor De Mare, Albert Myers, Lillian Terwilliger, Eleanor DeMare attained an average of 95 in the regents, the highest of the school; Albert Myers attained an average of 92. All pupils who took the regents passed with excellent marks. The pupils who obtained the highest averages in their respective grades in the examinations were: 7th grade, Eva Dewey, average 88; 6th grade, Howard Allen, average 86; 3rd grade, Jean Van Noodall, average 94.

Negro Resigns Appointment Washington, July 8 (AP).—Representative Mitchell (D., Ill.), said today that negro midshipman George J. Trivers had resigned from the naval academy because he found he could not do a midshipman's work. Mitchell, the only negro member of Congress, appointed Trivers to the academy. The congressman said, after a talk with Captain Forde A. Todd, acting academy superintendent, that there had been no unpleasantness surrounding Trivers' resignation. A year ago Mitchell charged that another negro midshipman had been appointed had been railroaded out of the academy.

however: "We have spoken our last word—the company expects to continue operation of the Alcoa Sheet Mill (the striking section of the plant) as long as peace of floors afford proper protection to our men."

Adjt. Gen. R. O. Smith, in charge of the National Guardsmen who arrived here during the night from various points in the state, expressed the belief there would be no further trouble.

The clash occurred after the company re-opened its fabricating mill, closed since May 18, when the employees walked out demanding that the basic hourly wage be increased from 45 to 60 cents an hour to give them parity with workers in the company's north-east mills. About 3,000 men were affected.

Strikers and guards gave conflicting accounts of how the fight started. Clyde Trusterfield, an officer who was shot in the leg, said: "I don't know who started the shooting. The strikers were throwing rocks, sticks and bottles. All of a sudden somebody started shooting."

Legal Fight.

(By The Associated Press.)
Cleveland, July 8.—"Little Steel's" dispute with organized labor was largely a legal fight today as Republic Steel Corp. reopened the last of its strike-closed mills.

On scattered fronts the steel workers organizing committee sought to bolster through suits and charges its fight for signed contracts.

Steel & Tubes, Inc., employing normally about 500 men and smallest of Republic's four Cleveland units, was opened to workers while police and Ohio National Guardsmen formed a protective circle at the mill, near Lake Erie on the city's far northeast side.

The other three Republic plants here resumed operations Tuesday. Republic said 5,800 men were back on duty, an increase of 700 from the first day's figures. Normally they employ 7,000 workers.

Lee Pressman, general counsel for John L. Lewis' committee for industrial organization, came to Cleveland from Pittsburgh to confer on pending court proceedings. He expected to go to Columbus, state capital, for a hearing tomorrow in federal district court on a suit to force withdrawal of National Guardsmen from Ohio strike centers.

Before leaving Pittsburgh, Pressman announced he had filed a complaint with the National Labor Relations Board charging Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. had "acted in collusion" with city and county police officials and officers of the Ohio National Guard in an effort to defeat the strike.

He charged the company "has imported a great number of armed thugs and gunmen" for the purpose of interfering with the right of peaceful picketing and "intimidating the strikers."

His seven-count complaint listed, he said, charges of collusion involving the Youngstown, O., chief of police, the Mahoning county (Youngstown) sheriff, and Adjutant General Emil P. Marx and other officers of the National Guard.

Pressman alleged importation of "strike-breakers" by Sheet & Tube and that it "compelled its employees who have been forced to return to work, as a condition of reemployment, to sign statements and otherwise promise that they will give up their membership in the Steel Workers Organizing Committee."

C. I. O. attorneys asked an injunction at Youngstown to restrain enforcement of Sheriff Elmer's proclamation limiting pickets to 10 at each steel plant. Brig. Gen. William A. Marlin, in charge of national guardsmen at Canton, O., when strike disorders occurred July 2, was made defendant in a $10,000 damage suit filed at Akron, O., by Edna King of Canton, one of several scores taken into custody. She charged guardsmen used abusive language and struck her.

Marlin said he was "glad this suit has been filed, as it will give an opportunity to present the true facts to the court and the public."

New threats to operations by Republic and Sheet & Tube came from Representative John T. Bernard (F-L Minn.), who said iron mine workers in Minnesota and Michigan would be called out "in two or three days" with a view to shutting off the supply of raw material.

Whitcombe Leads Golfers

Carnoustie, Scotland, July 8 (AP)—Led by English Reginald Whitcombe's three-under-par 70 for 142, the contenders for the British Open Golf Championship gave a thorough going-over in today's second round of the tournament. Whitcombe's 36-hole total was good enough for a two-stroke margin over Ed Dudley, Georgian, whose 70 led the first round, and Charles A. Whitcombe, brother Reginald's senior by three years and captain of the British Ryder Cup team.

35,000 Cloak
Workers Strike

New York, July 8 (AP)—An estimated 35,000 cloak and suit workers went on strike today over disputed working conditions in the Metropolitan Area. The stoppage affected 2,000 shops.

Sol Rosenblatt, impartial chairman, was called in immediately to bring employers and union officials together, but Isadore Nagler, manager of the cloak makers joint board of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, said whatever the outcome of negotiations, workers would not return to their jobs until Monday at the earliest.

Nagler said there are several points to be settled before a contract can be signed. One is the union's opposition to manufacturers, jobbers and contractors sending out the so-called mannish types of women's clothing to be made in men's shops at less cost than they are made in women's shops.

A contract between the union and the employers expired June 12. Recently the employers granted workers on piece work a ten per cent increase in wages and a flat rise of $5 for those employed on a straight weekly basis. Employers also agreed to establish a working week of 21½ hours as of June 1, 1939.

"Beat Me All Night"

Binghamton, N. Y., July 8.—Manning Stewell told a federal court jury today that police "beat me all night" in an attempt to obtain information regarding the abduction of John J. O'Connell, Jr., in July, 1933. Stewell, one of eight men on trial on charges growing out of the abduction, "go-between" in negotiations to free the victim. Resuming his stand in his own behalf, Stewell testified he was seized on an Albany street, hours after O'Connell's release, and pushed into a car in which there were five New York detectives.

Hasbrouck Park
Community Night

Hasbrouck Park boys and girls held their first Community Night Wednesday evening with many of the parents and friends in attendance to enjoy the evening's fun with them. A regular park day program was used with softball games furnishing the major entertainment of the evening. Volleyball, paddle tennis, ping pong, group games, checkers and other games were played by the children to interested groups of spectators.

Yesterday and today the ex-collees are nominating their officers for the season in preparation for election day which is to be held Friday, at which time a mayor and park council will be elected to supervise activities of the year. The new officers will be installed at a campfire program to be held next Wednesday night. A new campfire site has been secured and present plans indicate that an unusually fine program will be presented.

Plans are also being made for various other activities at the park, including a park newspaper, a "buddy parade" which is to be according to announcements "the greatest show on earth," and will present the young people in song, dance and minstrels, a field day program, on wheels carnival, as well as the usual handicraft programs.

Mayor Walter (Toddy) Tatarzewski, elected by the boys and girls last year, and serving until his successor is elected, extends a cordial invitation to all boys and girls living in the vicinity of the park to "join up" and enjoy the park program.

Allens Shipworkers

Washington, July 8 (AP)—John L. Lewis aligned his Committee for Industrial Organization today with 15,000 striking shipyard workers in New York and undertook to organize all maritime employees under C. I. O. auspices. The enrollment, he predicted, would immediately draw 300,000 men into one big union, similar to those he has promoted in the steel, auto and textile industries. Lewis said unionists who come into the C. I. O. campaign must break all ties with the American Federation of Labor.
